

Anton Levy Named to Forbes' Midas List of Top Tech Investors for Ninth Consecutive Year

Anton Levy, Co-President, Managing Director, and Chairman of General Atlantic's Global Technology Group was named #71 of 100 to Forbes' Midas List of Top Tech Investors for 2023, marking his inclusion on the list for the ninth consecutive year.

To qualify for Forbes' Midas List, investors are ranked by their portfolio companies that have gone public, been acquired in the last five years for at least $200 million, or are unexited private companies valued at $400 million or greater. Of note, liquid exits count more than unrealized returns.

In partnership with TrueBridge Capital Partners, Forbes' Midas List editorial team combines public data, confidential submissions of investment deals, industry information, and historical lists for a comprehensive set of data points and then develops the rankings based on deal value, size of exit, or valuation for each VC's investment. These rankings, alongside a review by institutional investors and venture experts, decide a VC's position on the Midas List.
